My dear Friend:

On returning from my summer vacation I have been delayed in examining a considerable accumulation of books which arrived during my absence. Among them I find the new supplements to your Grammar, which I appreciate very much having. Please accept my sincerest thanks.

In our reading of your Memoirs, we have just reached page 159, with its delightful reference to our excursion through the Hartz Mountains and the long expedition through ^{to} Achtermannshoehe. It was an excursion which I shall never forget. I suppose you feel as I do about it, and wish that you had as good legs and as good lungs as you had on that delightful tramp in the Hartz. It gave me special pleasure to find this reference in your book, and I hasten to write and tell you so.

With warmest greetings to all the household, in which Frances joins me, I am

Ever faithfully yours,

JHB/KG
