Dear Professor Erman

I now send you my note-book of the greater part of Leiden I, 350 recto with queries, and hope you will be able to make some suggestions. Can you let me have the note-book back in about a week? I shall only remain here probably until about the 28th. Leiden I, 350 is quite terribly difficult. I am now reading some very cursive letters of considerable interest, and in spite of the cursive forms find them much easier than the recto of I, 350. The verso of the same pap. I have collated carefully. It contains some interesting accounts, and I think I have managed to obtain a fairly accurate transcription.

You may find some difficulty in reading my text, as I have made so many erasures and notes. But I hope you may manage to decipher them.

With kind regards to you all, and hoping you may get some rest in the Easter vacation

Very sincerely yours
Alan Hardier.
