Dear Professor Eрман

It must be six weeks or longer since I received your charming letter about Rolf. I am so glad the boy pleased you. He really is a fine fellow with high ideals, and when they become a little less ethereal and a little more practical, I hope he will do good service in the world.

The special reason I have for writing now is to ask whether it would be convenient for my pupil R. Faulkner to work for a week or two on my behalf in the Wörterbuch rooms. I am having the greatest trouble in finding Belege for quite well-known spellings of familiar words, and am anxious to give references for everything in my Grammar.

Faulkner can help me a great deal in this way, for I feel it is impossible to worry the unfortunate Grapow with my very petty and trifling queries.
Please don't trouble to write more than a postcard, but if I heard from you soon Faulkner could reach Berlin about the 20th.

The strike was existing while it lasted, but everything passed off quite peacefully and good-humouredly

Heddie and I send our best greetings to the Familie Orman

Very sincerely yours
Alvan H Gardner
