Beaman

RIVERSVALE,

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.

20. I. 99.

Dear Prof. Erman,

We were delighted to get your note appended to Borchardt's. We hope the change to Egypt suits you and that you will allow yourself time to recruit thoroughly. The work on the Dictionary must be severe, and we are afraid that for some 15 years, until you speak again in the pages of the Wörterbuch itself, your voice will be little heard in the Zeitschrift and in books. Let us hope that it will not be so.

I am glad you appear to be enjoying the Hieroglyphs. Davies has just found the Aphroditopolite name as in the Usa inscription, the blade of a metre axe or halberd.
You will I hope see his work there.
What a magnificent discovery that is of the Sun temple at the Pyramid.

I have descended to the depths of domestic, but find it not without interest philologically.

We are looking forward to seeing Jette in London next month.

With our united kind regards

Yours truly

T. U. Griffith.
