Dear Brman,

Again many thanks; for your Schülerhandschriften, another fine contribution to papyrology in the proper sense of the word.
I had hoped that my wife and I would have visited Berlin this Christmas and seen you (as well as the Tell el-Amarna collection!). We must wait however till Easter. When we go away for a week or so to Bournemouth I shall take Lange's Amenemope and study it carefully, hoping to produce eventually an English version of the text for the 'Journal'. I see that you contributed many excellent suggestions to it, Miss Porter's Bibliography, which you originally suggested to her & to me, is at last on the way to publication. Miss Moss is editing it as ^{Miss Porter} ~~she~~ is too old to do it herself (though still adding to it), and the first volume 'Theban Tombs' has gone to the printers. Miss Moss has just started on her way to Egypt to complete the second volume, 'Theban Temples'.

Miss Porter, who is at this moment working in the library at the Bibliography, sends her greetings, as does my wife until we meet at Easter!

Yours very sincerely

J. H. Griffith.
