Dear Professor Erman,

When I sent you my Rhind Papyrus it was not with the intention or idea of receiving anything in exchange for it, but merely since it was the only tribute which it was in my power to pay to one to whom Egyptian philology and archaeology ^{are} ~~is~~ indebted for so much. Nevertheless I was very much delighted to receive from you so many of your ~~were~~ works, which I shall value not merely for their own intrinsic worth but as having been presented to me by yourself.

May I congratulate you on the happy event of this year, and hope that you may still have many years of valuable work in front of you.

Yours, with many thanks,

T. Eric Peet
