NEW YORK CITY, U. S. A. November 11th, 1902.

Professor Adolf Erman,
University of Berlin.
Germany.

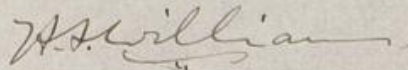

Dear Professor Erman:-

I am sending herewith a copy of your manuscript on "The World Historic Relations of the Egyptians", <sup>written for our World History</sup> together with the proof for your corrections. We have had the translation made and verified with great care, and I think you will find our English rendering of your admirable article a correct and satisfactory one. I should be glad if you would return the proof at your early convenience.

I have discovered, to my regret, that the check written for you last March, just before I left England, was, through a clerical error, not sent to you. It is our custom to pay for these articles in advance, and I supposed such payment had been made in your case as with the others. ~~But~~ I regret the oversight.

Let me again express my very great satisfaction with your admirable article.

Yours faithfully,

EDITOR IN CHIEF.
