Handwritten text on a palm-leaf manuscript strip, oriented vertically. The text is written in a dark ink and appears to be in a South Asian script, possibly Grantha or Tamil. The characters are arranged in several lines, with some characters being larger and more prominent than others. The leaf shows signs of age, including discoloration and some dark spots.

Fragment of a document or parchment, showing significant damage and staining.

Fragment of a papyrus scroll with faint, illegible handwriting. The text is arranged in several vertical columns, but the characters are too faded and the paper is too damaged to be transcribed accurately. The fragment is approximately 15 cm wide and 22 cm high.
